

Women's Philanthropy--Women's Issues

Women's Philanthropy is a focus for empowering the lives of women and girls. Supporting non-profit programs that help women and girls through encouragement to build lives that maintain stability, the result is dynamic transformation and social change. This is a clearinghouse for sharing information and resources, as well as a forum for promoting dialogue, exchange and feedback about critical issues that affect women's lives.

Hiding Carly

My very dear friend from childhood is now a published author and I am providing information that you may wish to consider in purchasing her book and showing your active support for women writers.

I'm also proud to say my friend is a survivor in the truest sense of the word. She is a cancer survivor and graciously shares her story [thought that is not the subject of her book] to empower others and help build bridges between people who might otherwise feel alone during these frightening, often debilitating medical experiences.

Again, I urge you to support my friend and order a copy of her book today.

Love and light, Stephanie

Hiding Carly

Authored by Ann E Eisenstein

Eleven year old Sean is in search of the truth. Someone murdered his father, Special Agent Max Gray, and the FBI has officially closed the case. Now it is up to him to find out who was to blame.

While investigating online, Sean stumbles upon a mysterious connection between his father and that new girl in his class. Now he has two puzzles to solve. What really

About the author:

Ann Eisenstein grew up on a farm in Sidney, Ohio, where weekly trips to the library made it possible to explore and dream about the world beyond. She attended Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, graduating with a BS degree in Education, with an English and
